

M O M E N T

Daphne Athas

Aimless as a plastic bag
floating on the bobbing sea,
you catch the eye.

It follows you
And loses you.

Where do you go that we forget so soon,
Spared of your death among the roses?